

Jacqueliën van Stekelenburg:

“The ISPP is close to my heart: as a protest scholar I am very enthusiastic about performing and promoting scientific research on the relationship between socio-political and psychological phenomena. Since I attended ISPP’s 2002 summer school in Warsaw, I have been active in the ISPP as member of the organizing committee of the ISPP-meeting in 2005, the ISPP Dissertation Committee, and organizer of panels at ISPP-meetings. In the Governing Council I shall stand for the expansion of theoretical and practical significance of political psychology. With enticing enthusiasm I shall work for a Society which facilitates academic innovation and creativity and interdisciplinary cross-fertilization.”
