WELCOME LETTER
From the President

IDEOLOGIES AND IDEOLOGICAL CONFLICT: THE POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY OF BELIEF SYSTEMS

It is my pleasure to welcome everyone to the 37th Annual Meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology in the wonderful city of Rome. It takes a great deal of work to organize a meeting like this and I would like to recognize some of the people who made this meeting possible. The large program of panels, posters, and talks that you are about to be a part of was put together by a team led by conference chairs Eva Green and Joanne Miller and their assistant Philip Chen. Eva, Joanne, and Philip put in many hours of work to turn the flood of paper and poster proposals into a coherent program. They were assisted by twelve section heads: Frank Asbrock, Susan Condor, Neil Ferguson, Melinda Jackson, Jonathan Keller, Paul Kowert, Howard Lavine, Martin Rosema, Oriane Sarrasin, Darren Schreiber, Christian Staerkle, and Beth Miller Vonnahme. I think you'll agree that the program chairs and section heads did a great job putting together a great program. It was particularly gratifying to see so many papers on the conference theme of political ideology. Political psychology has a rich history of contributions to the study of ideology and ideological conflict and this meeting is evidence of the continuing efforts of political psychologists to understand one of the major underpinnings of political debate and conflict.

Our Executive Director, Sev Bennett, made sure that all aspects of the meeting were carefully planned and executed – everything from overseeing the web site, to coordinating with the hotel, to producing the program – with time left over to answer all requests for help from ISPP members. It's hard to imagine how this meeting would have come together without Sev's efforts. In addition to her work on this meeting, Sev has worked hard this past year to upgrade our web site's capabilities and improve communications from the central office. You will be seeing more of the benefits of her work in the near future.

We are again this year offering our three day Summer Academy, now in its fourth year. Eight senior instructors provide an introduction to political psychology for graduate students and new faculty. The first three years of the Summer Academy have been a great success. Much of the credit for this success goes to the Director, Tereza Capelos, and her assistant Stavroula Chrona. We all appreciate the effort they have put in to this important new ISPP endeavor.

From the President

A note of thanks also goes out to this year's chairs of our award committees: Bruce Dayton, Ofer Feldman, Eran Halperin, Michael Morrell, David Sears, Elizabeth Suhay, and Johanna Vollhardt. These awards are the highest honors that ISPP gives out. Please join us at the awards ceremony on Sunday afternoon to recognize this year's award winners.

I hope you have also noticed two important new ISPP publications. The second edition of the Oxford Handbook of Political Psychology edited by Leonie Huddy, David Sears, and Jack Levy was published last year. Substantially updated from the first edition, this 28 chapter, 1000 page handbook is an indispensable reference source for political psychology. And ISPP members get a substantial discount as well. This past January saw the publication of the first volume of the new Advances in Political Psychology, edited by Howie Lavine. This new ISPP annual will publish longer, more integrative articles. All ISPP members will receive this new publication. Thanks also go out to the current editorial team of Political Psychology led by Alex Mintz. They will be completing their five year term at the end of January 2015. We all owe them our thanks for all the hard work they have put in. A new editorial team will be announced very soon.

I welcome all of you – long-term ISPP members and those who are attending for the first time – to our Annual Meeting. This meeting, the summer academy, ISPP publications, our small grants program, and more are possible only through the support of our members. Your membership in ISPP not only provides you with our publications and reduced conference registration fees, it also makes it possible for ISPP to expand its service to the entire field of political psychology. Renewing your membership annually is a major contribution to these efforts. Enjoy the meeting!

Stanley Feldman
ISPP President

WELCOME LETTER

From Rome Program Chairs

WELCOME TO THE 37TH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY!

We are extremely happy you are here in Rome and hope you will enjoy the conference. Rome is one of the world's most famous cities and a delightful location to enjoy the historical sites and Italian cuisine. The long political history of the city makes Rome an exciting setting for a conference on political psychology. The conference theme, "Ideologies and ideological conflict: The political psychology of belief systems," is at the core of the field.

The conference contains a series of panels based on the conference theme. In addition to the thematic panels, our section chairs have compiled an exciting program organized in 12 sections, featuring paper panels and roundtables. There is also a large poster session which we have given a prime slot in the program (on Saturday, from 1:00-2:30 in Leptis Magna II). We hope that this session will be a place for vibrant conversations and exchanges of ideas, as the unique format allows in-depth one-on-one discussions with the authors. Poster authors are encouraged to put their posters up early and leave them up until the end of the day, and will be available from 1:00-2:30 on Saturday to discuss their work. We encourage you all to look at the posters throughout the day, and to stop by to meet the authors from 1:00-2:30.

In addition to the Presidential Address by Stanley Feldman, we have keynote addresses by Bert Klandermans, recipient of the Harold Lasswell Award, and Kristen Renwick Monroe, recipient of the Nevitt Sanford Award. We also feature a number of events with a focus on junior scholars, including a Mentoring lunch, Junior Scholars' social hour, a Publishing and Funding roundtable and a Career Development roundtable.

Over 700 participants from over 54 countries throughout the world have come to Rome for intellectually stimulating exchanges to advance the field of political psychology and further our understanding of real-life societal and political dynamics. Indeed, Rome has shown to be a very attractive conference location as we are close to breaking ISPP records in number of participants. Beyond the panels and the social events, we invite you to engage in discussions and enjoy spending time with fellow political psychologists.

WELCOME LETTER From Rome Program Chairs

Here in Rome, we continue with the novel efforts of previous years to increase debates and sharing ideas during the conference and beyond. We encourage everyone to tweet about the conference (interesting sessions, social events, paper links, etc.) using the hashtag #ISPP2014.

We would not be writing this if we had not had the help and support of a number of people. We first wish to thank our section chairs who reviewed the proposals and organized the individual proposals into over 160 panels. It was a challenge to build a coherent and interesting program while taking into account various constraints participants have. Our thanks go to our section chairs: Frank Asbrock, Susan Condor, Neil Ferguson, Melinda Jackson, Jonathan Keller, Paul Kowert, Howard Lavine, Beth Miller Vonnahme, Martin Rosema, Oriane Sarrasin, Darren Schreiber, and Christian Staerklé. We were helped throughout the year by Sev Bennett, executive director of ISPP, who tirelessly replied to all our inquiries and kept us on track. Our special thanks to her! We are also very grateful to Stanley Feldman, president of ISPP, for inviting us to be the program chairs and for his advice along the way. Finally, our biggest thanks goes to Phil Chen (PhD candidate at the University of Minnesota), our conference assistant. Phil has been amazing and his help was vital at every step of our planning process.

Enjoy the conference and have a fantastic stay in Rome!

WELCOME LETTER

From Junior Scholars Committee Chair

Welcome to the 37th annual meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology in Rome! This year's event, themed Ideologies and Ideological Conflict: The Political Psychology of Belief Systems, promises a wide variety of innovative and inspiring research presented by junior and senior scholars from all over the world. I am pleased to announce that this year the Junior Scholars Committee (JSC) has organized a number of exciting events, which we hope you will attend.

On the first day of the conference we begin our events with the JSC Mentoring Lunch on Friday July 4 at 11:30 AM. JSC Mentoring Program coordinators Gary Smith and Laura Taylor have arranged this year's event. Those who registered for the mentoring program will experience a one-on-one interaction between junior scholars and senior scholars in the field. Mentees are encouraged to discuss their research interests and projects to get specific advice for their scholarly work. We hope that the mentors and the mentees keep in touch during and after the conference.

On the second day of the conference the JSC Professional Development coordinators Gizem Arıkan and Sanne Rijkhoff will hold two exciting roundtables focusing on professional development. The roundtables are intended to initiate a dialogue between junior and senior scholars. The first roundtable will be on the Job Market (Seeking and Securing Jobs for Junior Political Psychologists) on Saturday, July 5 at 10:00am. Confirmed speakers include: Emily Fisher (Hobart & William Smith Colleges), Leonie Huddy (Stony Brook University), and Rune Slothuus (Aarhus University). The panel will focus on the possible ways of fitting in general job descriptions, overcoming potential departmental boundaries, and standing out of the crowd while remaining true to specific research interests. The second roundtable will be on Saturday, July 5 at 3:45 PM, the Publication Roundtable (Financing Your Research and Getting Published). Rezarta Bilali (New York University), Bert Klandermans (VU University Amsterdam), and Katherine Reynolds (Australian National University) will share their experiences and insights about publishing and funding opportunities for junior scholars.

At the end of the busy Saturday program, we will hold the Junior Scholars Social Hour offering an informal opportunity for networking among peers in a relaxed atmosphere. Always well-attended, the social hour is a great place to meet old friends, as well as new ones! Drinks will be provided. See you on Saturday, July 5 at 5:30 PM.

WELCOME LETTER
From Junior Scholars Committee Chair

Furthermore, the JSC had the pleasure to award 13 Travel Grants to assist junior scholars to attend this year's conference. Congratulations once again!

In addition to our presence at this year's conference, the JSC continues to manage several online services. Especially for this year's event we created the 2014 ISPP Annual Meeting Facebook Group (facebook.com/groups/ISPP2014/), to facilitate the exchange between conference participants during and after the conference. Follow the ISPP Facebook page (facebook.com/ISPPJuniorScholars) and Twitter (@ISPP_JSC) to stay up-to-date regarding upcoming call for papers and funding opportunities. As always, we appreciate any comments, advice or feedback on how we can best serve you, you can reach us at jsc@ispp.org.

Finally, I would like to thank to all members of the 2013-2014 Junior Scholars Committee. It has been wonderful to be working with such an enthusiastic and talented group of junior scholars!

Enjoy the conference and your stay in Rome!

The Virtue of Comparison: On Times, Places, Issues, and Comparison

Bert Klandermandans

This keynote is about the virtue of comparative research. Comparison has been my trade mark all along. As a recipient of a lifetime achievement award I figured that I should lecture on what made me going all those years from the very first study I undertook until the most recent one that we started a few months ago. I will walk with you through some of the studies I conducted in the past and hope to demonstrate what insights comparison brought. Comparison of time in research in South Africa; comparison of place in research on the worldwide demonstrations against the war in Iraq; comparison of time and place in a longitudinal study of farmer's protest in the Netherlands and Spain, and in a campaign of a Dutch labor union that failed. Comparison of street demonstrations on a variety of issues in eight different countries and a longitudinal study of participants in the anti-nuclear weapon protest. All those studies are comparative and together they illustrate the virtue of comparison.

The Political Consequences of Empathy: Ideology, Caring, and Social Welfare Attitudes

Stanley Feldman

The social safety net is one of the foundations of the modern social welfare state. Public support for government benefits to the disadvantaged is therefore crucial for the legitimacy of the welfare state. An important element in developing sympathy for those in need should be empathy – the ability to understand and share the feelings of another. In this research project I examine the effects of empathy on responses to people in need of assistance. I also consider situations in which empathetic reactions to the needy are consistent or inconsistent with people's ideological beliefs. The relationships between empathy, ideology, and sympathy for the disadvantaged have important implications for attitudes toward social welfare policy.

Monday 7 July, 11:45-1:15 PM, Leptis Magna 1*A Darkling Plain: Stories of Conflict and Humanity during War*

Kristen Renwick Monroe

How do people maintain their humanity during wars? Despite its importance, this question receives scant scholarly attention, perhaps because of the overwhelming aspect of war. "The enormity of it all tended to reduce everything else in life to a kind of footnote," one soldier said of the Battle of the Bulge during World War II. The generally accepted wisdom is that wars bring out the worst in us, pitting us against one another. "War is hell," William Tecumseh Sherman famously noted, and even wars clearly designated "just" nonetheless inflict massive destruction and cruelty. Since ethics and moral psychology are concerned with discovering what takes us to a morally superior place, however, one conducive to human flourishing and happiness, studying what helps people survive wartime trauma becomes an extremely valuable enterprise. A Darkling Plain builds on what began as a class project designed to help students understand what it is like to live through a war and ends by attempting to fill an important scholarly void, analyzing wartime stories that reveal much about our capacity to process trauma, heal wounds, reclaim lost spirits, and derive meaning and purpose from the most horrific of personal events.

Junior Scholars Paper Award

Roberta Sigel Junior Scholar Paper Award 2015

The Sigel Award is given to junior scholar authors of the best papers presented at annual scientific meetings. Nominees must be current ISPP members.

ISPP first announced this award at its Vancouver meeting in 1996. Professor Sigel, whom the award honors, was a distinguished professor of political science at Rutgers University. She was the author and editor of seven books and many articles and book chapters, mostly in the areas of political socialization and democratic citizenship. She had many leadership roles in the American Political Science Association and has served as program chair, Vice-President and President of ISPP.

All ISPP junior scholars who are current dues paid members of ISPP and had their paper accepted for the 2014 Annual Meeting are eligible to be considered for the award to be presented during the 2015 meeting. Junior scholars are students (graduate or undergraduate) and faculty who received their Ph.D. within the last eight years. Each award carries a cash prize of $250.

There are two awards with slightly different criteria to accommodate the authorship and publication practices in the various disciplines represented in ISPP:

- The first award is given to the best paper written by junior scholars only. In the case of multiple authors, all co-authors must be junior scholars.
- The second award is conferred to the best paper with a junior scholar first author. This award allows for a senior scholar co-author.

Please nominate (self-nominations are encouraged) eligible papers only (posters are not eligible) and submit them to the email below by February 15, 2015. Papers previously submitted to the Sigel Award are not eligible. All submissions will be read by the award committee, consisting of members of the Junior Scholar Committee as well as senior scholars. Two papers will be selected strictly according to scientific excellence and their contribution to research in political psychology.

BEST DISSERTATION AWARD

Announcement 2015

Best Dissertation Award Announcement 2015

The International Society of Political Psychology is pleased to announce a call for nominations for the Best Dissertation Award, given for the first time at the 2008 Annual Meeting in Paris.

All Ph.D. dissertations within the field of political psychology are eligible for consideration, regardless of home discipline. Dissertations should represent an independent piece of research that is the sole work of the author and gains the highest degree at the author's university.

Nominations are due by January 15, 2014, for dissertations completed and successfully defended between Jan. 1, 2014, and Dec. 31, 2014. Nominees must be current ISPP members. Nominations should be submitted electronically and must include a one-page abstract (300 word), a 10-page (3,000 word) summary of the dissertation, and a letter of recommendation from the thesis adviser or committee member, all in English.

For more information, see <http://www.ispp.org/awards/best-dissertation>

Send nominations to the 2015 Award Committee Chair:

Anca Minescu

University of Limerick

anca.minescu@ul.ie

The award committee will request a copy of the full dissertation for those selected to participate in the second round evaluation. If the dissertation is written in a language other than English, the full dissertation may be submitted in the original language for the second round evaluation, and at least one qualified reader fluent in that language will be included as a committee member for the second round evaluation.

The 38th Annual Meeting

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF ENCOUNTER AND THE POLITICS OF ENGAGEMENT

To be held at: Omni San Diego, San Diego, California (USA)
July 3-6, 2015

Program Co-chairs: Melinda Jackson (San Jose State University, USA) and Clifford Stevenson (Queen's University Belfast, Northern Ireland)

Among the central challenges facing communities, nations, and the global community in recent years has been the growing tendency toward patterns of social and political exclusion, the building of barriers and the enforcement of borders, stigmatization and segregation of minorities, breakdowns in communication among diverse peoples, and the construction of parallel societies. Among other consequences, these trends have conditioned psychological stress and intergroup conflict. The disciplines of psychology and political science have generated research findings and stimulated new thinking that promise to address these challenges. The conference will generate a forum in which to consider the political psychology of integration, contact, dialogue, recognition, care, ethical responsibility, political mobilization and participation as well as the fostering of positive community relations.

We welcome individual papers and posters, as well entire panels and roundtables, which present theory and research on the psychology of encounter and the politics of engagement. Research can draw on all of the theoretical perspectives and methods in the field of political psychology including, but not limited to, social and political identities, discursive, rhetorical and narrative psychology, personality, leadership, values, cognitive and motivational processes, psychoanalytic approaches, intergroup relations, collective action, and genetic and biological factors. We are particularly interested in proposals that provide new theoretical or empirical insights into the psychology of encounter and the politics of engagement.

Introducing a new annual series, published by Wiley on behalf of the International Society of Political Psychology

Advances in Political Psychology

From Editor Howard Lavine's introduction to the inaugural issue: Given the explosion of information and interest in the field, there is an increasing need for a venue where cumulative research findings are synthesized in a form accessible to the scholar, student, and practitioners. The Advances in Political Psychology annual series is intended to fill this need by publishing capstone papers that summarize and detail a systematic program of ongoing research on a given topic or theory.

Advances in Political Psychology is included with your membership to ISPP or subscription to the society's flagship journal, Political Psychology.

Volume 1, January 2014

- Political Neuroscience: The Beginning of a Beautiful Friendship
- Interdependent Actors, Social Networks, and the Contingent Consequences of Political Communication
- Two Aspects of Terrorists' Motivations: What Do They Want? Why Do They Want it?
- Political Ecology: On the Mutual Formation of Biology and Culture
- Morality and Politics
- Political Parties, Motivated Reasoning, and Public Opinion Formation

Volume 2, Forthcoming in January 2015

- Expressive Rationality and Cultural Polarization: Theory and Evidence
- The Illusion of Choice in Democratic Politics
- The Cycle of Violence: Causes and Consequences of Participation in Violent Groups
- Source Cue Spillover Effects
- Direct and Indirect Emotion Regulation as a New Path for Conflict Resolution
- Evolutionary Political Psychology: A Primer

NEW FROM

Political Psychology

The latest issue of Political Psychology, Volume 35 Issue 3, June 2014, features the following articles:

- Anger, Exposure to Violence, and Intragroup Conflict: A "Lab in the Field" Experiment in Southern Israel
- Understanding the Determinants of Political Ideology: Implications of Structural Complexity
- Emotional Rescue: How Affect Helps Partisans Overcome Collective Action Problems
- Cooperation in Ethnically Diverse Neighborhoods: A Lost-Letter Experiment
- Partisan Bias and Information Discounting in Economic Judgments
