BEYOND BORDERS AND BOUNDARIES: PERSPECTIVES FROM POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY

Welcome to the 41st Annual meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology! I very much hope you will have a productive and inspiring conference and a wonderful stay in San Antonio, Texas.

The conference theme focusing on Borders and Boundaries is as timely as ever. Border controls resulting from the “refugee crisis”, from the rise of radical right populism, and from increased social inequalities exemplify boundary making in different forms. The conference topic also resonates—ironically—with Texas where a border wall with Mexico is being planned and where recent legislation has restricted rights of LGBT people, and it also resonates with the much disputed travel bans to the U.S. Such circumstances have certainly added hurdles to the organization of this meeting. But while ISPP cannot change the political climate, program chairs Bethany Albertson and Frank Asbrock along with the section chairs (Fiona Barlow, Rezarta Bilali, Chris Federico, Immo Fritsche, Chris Karpowitz, Nour Kteily, Bernhard Leidner, Hannah Nam, Clifford Scott, Johannes Ullrich, Johanna van der Noll, and Jenny Wolak) have put together a diverse and exciting program tackling head on these issues. My heartfelt thanks to all of you! I also warmly thank Sev Bennett, Executive Director, and her assistant, Heather Schlabach, from the Central Office who are responsible for the practical and administrative organization of all ISPP meetings, and who have done a fantastic job for this meeting.

In addition to panel and poster sessions, we will have keynotes on the program by Jack Citrin (Lasswell award winner 2017) on “Identity Choice and the Politics of Solidarity and Fragmentation”, Don Haider-Markel on “Political Psychology and LGBT Politics and Policy”, Stephen Wright on “Collective Harm-doing: When is destructive action by our group acceptable?”, as well as my presidential address on the conference theme. In addition, twelve invited symposia have been scheduled covering hot topics in political psychology as well as reaching out to practitioners. As each year, the Early Career Committee has organized a number of panels and events, such as the mentoring luncheon and the social hour, to foster early career professional development and provide networking opportunities.

Beyond Borders and Boundaries also reflects a key strategic ISPP goal of developing into a more globally international and diverse academic society. To this end, I am especially pleased that we have three invited symposia organized by colleagues from South America, chaired by Héctor Carvacho, Roberto González, and Salvador Sandoval, with the aim to strengthen relationships with political psychologists from this region. Two roundtables on ISPP diversity and internationalization chaired by Johanna Vollhardt (Thursday July 5) and on recent ISPP endeavors to support threatened political psychologists in Turkey chaired by Masi Noor and Kate Reynolds (Thursday July 5) are arranged to get your views on these issues, report on current initiatives of ISPP leadership, and discuss how ISPP members can contribute to these efforts. We hope to see many of you at these special sessions.

We want to include ISPP members in the development of our society! Therefore, I also invite you to attend the Business Meeting on Friday July 6 to hear about current activities of the ISPP leadership. In addition to the aforementioned internationalization endeavors and support in Turkey, the business meeting will be an opportunity to learn for example about the restructuring plans aiming to improve strategic planning and the decision-making organs of the society.

In addition to an intellectually stimulating program a number of social events are organized to bring all conference attendees together at the end of each day. We will celebrate the achievements of colleagues at the Award Ceremony and Reception on Friday July 6. Congratulations to all award winners! My thanks go to ISPP members having served on the various award committees, notably the committee chairs: Rezarta Bilali, Leda Blackwood, Stanley Feldman, Jim McAuley, Orla Muldoon, Marco Steenbergen, and Laura Taylor. I invite you also to join us at the Welcome and Closing Receptions to catch up around a drink with old and new friends.

Important changes in ISPP leadership will take place soon. At the end of this conference, Felicia Pratto will have served her five-year term as ISPP Treasurer. Thank you, Felicia, for keeping ISPP finances on track. My thanks also go to Melinda Jackson, our next Treasurer. The term of the editorial board led by Catarina Kinnvall finishes at the end of 2019. We are therefore currently searching for a new, geographically and intellectually diverse editorial team.

Only seven years ago, we organized a memorable annual meeting in Istanbul. Now, following their signature on a peace petition calling for the termination of human rights violations, many political psychologists in Turkey have been trialed, lost their jobs and had their passports cancelled. I am deeply sorry that these ISPP members cannot join us here in San Antonio. My special thanks goes to those who have made donations to the ISPP Scholars Under Threat Fund, accessible via the ISPP website and our conference app, to support ISPP colleagues in Turkey. This is one way we can help maintain and strengthen academic links Beyond Borders and Boundaries. Note that ISPP will match donated funds up to $40,000 USD through 8 July 2018! Thank you for your continued ISPP membership and to all of you who have contributed to the ISPP community and given their precious time as committee members, as reviewers for the journals, etc. It has been an amazing and busy year as president. At the end of this conference, I pass the torch to David Redlawsk. I wish him all the best!

I extend a warm welcome to everyone and hope you all enjoy the conference!

ISPP President

WELCOME TO THE 41ST ANNUAL MEETING OF THE INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY!

A warm welcome to ISPP 2018 in San Antonio, Texas. This is ISPP's 41st international conference. The multidisciplinary study of the intersection of politics and psychology remains incredibly important in a world where national boundaries, citizenship, migration, and trade relations are salient and divisive in ways familiar from history but thought to be of a bygone era. This year's conference encompasses the core themes of "Beyond Borders and Boundaries: Perspectives from Political Psychology." Our program reflects these topics and covers many others from a range of disciplinary and methodological perspectives, adding the now distinctive ISPP edge of cross-national and cross-cultural comparisons.

As you will see in the conference program, it will be a busy three days! There are over 350 registered delegates participating in 63 panels, 4 roundtable discussions, 7 other plenary or workshop sessions, and presenting 73 posters.

In plenary sessions, Professor Eva G. T. Green will give the ISPP Presidential Address at 5 pm on Wednesday, and Professor Stephen Wright will give keynote addresses at 12 pm on Thursday, and then Professors Jack Citrin and Don Haider-Markel will speak at 4 pm on the following days. These will address the diverse themes of Beyond Borders and Boundaries: Perspectives from Political Psychology (Green); Identity Choice and the Politics of Solidarity and Fragmentation (Citrin); Political Psychology and LGBT Politics and Policy (Haider-Markel); and Collective Harm-doing: When is destructive action by our group acceptable? (Wright). In addition, several events run by the Early Career Scholars will focus on new generations of political psychologists, with one roundtable session focusing on "The Perils of Publishing – Developing Productive Writing Habits" on Thursday 2:30-4 pm; another on "The Challenges of Collaboration – Developing Productive Research Networks" on Friday 11:30 am-1 pm; and an Elevator Pitch Workshop on Saturday, 11:30 am-1 pm.

Section chairs did yeoman's work evaluating and organizing over 494 conference submissions, putting together an amazing program. Fiona Barlow, Rezarta Bilali, Scott Clifford, Chris Federico, Immo Fritsche, Chris Karpowitz, Nour Kteily, Bernhard Leidner, Hannah Nam, Johannes Ullrich, Jolanda van der Noll, and Jennifer Wolak, we are deeply grateful for your service. On behalf of presenters, audiences, ISPP and the wider discipline of political psychology: Thank you!

Special thanks also goes to Sev Bennett, ISPP Executive Director, for her tireless work facilitating conference planning and keeping us on track. Heather Schlabach, Executive Administrator, assisted with the sorting and communications with submitters, and answered many questions, and we thank her for invaluable assistance.

There will be much to share and discuss. The world comes together at ISPP conferences, and this is also the time for us to give some of our collective knowledge back to the world. We trust you will join us in sharing your insights and conference revelations via social interaction and social media, during and after the conference. The Twitter feed for this year's conference is #ISPP2018, and for news and other conversations you can follow ISPP on Facebook or Twitter @PolPsyISPP.

Finally, a big thanks to all of you for your contributions to the field of political psychology!

Enjoy ISPP 2018!

WELCOME LETTER
From Early Career Committee Chair

EARLY CAREER COMMITTEE WELCOME 2018

From all of us on the Early Career Committee (ECC), welcome to the 41st annual meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology in San Antonio, TX!

Since the last annual meeting, the ECC has been working hard to organize events to support the development of Early Career Scholar political psychologists. Early Career Scholars are those individuals who are in graduate school or have received their terminal degree within the last eight years. We have been keeping you apprised of activities, job openings, and other opportunities through our twice annual Newsletter, thanks to the hard work of our Newsletter Editors Philip Chen and Sandra Obradovic, and through our social media accounts, thanks to the work of our Web Resource Coordinators Lucas Czarnecki and Sumedh Rao. In addition to keeping early career scholars up-to-date about things going on in the ISPP, we have also worked hard to bolster the voices of Early Career Scholars through our blog (thanks again to our Web Resource Coordinators) and ensuring that we offer many exciting professional development opportunities at this year's meeting.

This year we were able to support 15 Early Career Scholars to attend this year's annual meeting in San Antonio through our Travel Award Grant. Congratulations to the winners: Hailey Hatch (University of Northern Iowa), Selvanathan Hemapreya (University of Massachusetts – Amherst), Julia Tran (Clark University), Class Pollmanns (TU Chemnitz), Tracy Goodwin (Stony Brook University), Alivia Zubrod (University of Northern Iowa), Mirijam Boehme (University of Bamberg), Samuel Freel (New York University), Agata Maria Kraj (University of Bamberg), Eduardo Rivera-Pichardo (Universitat Pompeu Fabra), Sabahat Vigdem Bagci (Isik University), Julia Elad Strenger (Friedrich Schiller University), Alina Salmen (University of Kent), Lucas Czarnecki (University of Calgary), and Felipe Vilanova de Gois Andrade (Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Sul). We have also organized a variety of exciting events for Early Career Scholars to attend at this year's annual meeting.

We will once again be offering our Elevator Pitch Workshop. This will be held on July 7th from 11:30am to 1:00pm. This event gives Early Career Scholars the chance to practice packaging their research agenda in a concise manner. At the event, participants will receive feedback from established scholars to ensure that they are able to convey the most pertinent information about their research in a brief and attention-grabbing way. This workshop will provide valuable tools for early career political psychologists on the job market. At the end of the event, the participants will receive a certificate of participation.

We will also hold two Professional Development Roundtables – organized by Femke Bakker and Alexa Bankert - during the annual meeting. The first roundtable is titled, “The Perils of Publishing – Developing Productive Writing Habits.” This Roundtable will be held on Thursday, 5 July from 2:30 PM to 4:00 PM and will provide advice about developing writing habits that can help early career scholars use their writing time in the most efficient fashion. The second Roundtable is titled, “The Challenges of Collaboration – Developing Productive Research Networks.” This Roundtable will be Friday, 6 July from 11:30 AM to 1:00 PM and will provide advice from established scholars about the best way to connect with like-minded scholars in order to develop a useful network of collaborators.

We will also host our annual Mentoring Luncheon on 5 July from 1:00 to 2:30pm, arranged by the Mentor Program Coordinators (Pip Cawley and Chadly Stern). Over lunch, registered mentors and early career scholars have the opportunity to discuss various career-relevant matters. Attendees have the opportunity to discuss their research and variety of career dynamics in their respective research areas.

We also hold our more relaxing Early Career Scholar Social Hour offering an informal opportunity for early career scholars to network and catch up with old friends in a relaxed atmosphere. This event is always well-attended, and drinks and hors d’oeuvres will be provided. We hope to see you there at 6:00pm on 5 July.

During the annual meeting the ECC will continue to keep you apprised of events, as well as interesting panels and roundtables using the ISPP’s social media accounts. Like us on the ISPP Facebook page (facebook.com/PolPsyISPP), follow us on Twitter (@PolPsyISPP), or connect with us on LinkedIn (<https://www.linkedin.com/in/intlSOCpolpsych/>) to stay up-to-date regarding upcoming call for papers and funding opportunities. As always, we appreciate any comments, advice or feedback on how we can best serve you; you can reach us at ecc@ispp.org.

Finally, I would like to thank the 2017-2018 Early Career Committee members for all of their hard work and dedication. It is such a great pleasure to work with such creative and hardworking individuals. Enjoy San Antonio!

Location: Salon BC (Second Floor – Salon del Rey)

Please join us at the two poster sessions! We have a great lineup of posters addressing topics that span the conference sections. The scheduled "meet-the-author" sessions are Friday and Saturday, both at 10:15 AM – 11:15 AM. Poster authors must put up their poster early each morning and will need to remove them immediately following their scheduled session. The posters are numbered as they are in the program; corresponding numbers on the posterboards will indicate where each poster should be placed. Poster sessions are a terrific venue for having one-on-one conversations with scholars about their work. We hope to see you there!

Wednesday 4 July, 5:00 -6:00 PM, El Mirador BC*Beyond Borders and Boundaries: Perspectives from Political Psychology*

Eva G. T. Green (University of Lausanne, Switzerland)

In contemporary societies there is a constant and simultaneous tendency both to construct and to contest boundaries between people. The 2018 ISPP annual meeting aims to take stock of the social, scientific and political significance of various forms of boundaries for political psychology. Boundaries indeed range from tangible to symbolic, from porous to impermeable, and from changing to stable forms of separation and demarcation. Boundary-making is politicized and can be triggered by sudden societal events and legitimized by ongoing political circumstances. In the first part of my talk, I will overview how ISPP, as a society, is currently reaching beyond borders and boundaries by acting to reduce inequalities, provide equal opportunities among members, and facilitate access to membership. In the second part of this talk, I present recent research in political psychology on how ideological climates contribute to building and breaking boundaries between migrants and natives in Europe.

Thursday 5 July, 12:00 -1:00 PM, La Vista*Collective Harm-doing: When is destructive action by our group acceptable?*

Stephen C. Wright (Simon Fraser University, Canada)

Social psychology provides an extensive account of when and why group members will take action on behalf of their group (collective action) versus taking actions to improve their personal position, versus remaining inactive. However, what we know less about is what determines which of the many possible forms of collective action a group will come to endorse. In addition, existing research has focused primarily on the individual's willingness to take action. My colleagues and I offer a model that focuses specifically on destructive forms of collective action: action intended to directly harm the advantaged group. Secondly, we focus not on the actors themselves but rather on what would lead members of a group to see harm-doing as legitimate and appropriate and thus to support others within the group who take these types of actions. Drawing on theorizing on self-categorization, ingroup projection, minimal/maximal standards and moral outrage, we propose that destructive collective action is often a response to actions by the outgroup that are seen to violate the minimal (absolute) standards of both the ingroup and the superordinate category (the larger more inclusive societal group that encompass both the ingroup and the outgroup). In these cases, destructive collective action is seen as legitimate, even morally mandated, punishment of the outgroup. I will present data from a series of studies testing aspects of this model.

Friday 6 July, 4:00 -5:00 PM, La Vista

Identity Choice and the Politics of Solidarity and Fragmentation

Jack Citrin (University of California – Berkeley, USA)

Collective identities both unite and divide. The pattern of solidarity and fragmentation depend of the contexts making particular identifications salient and spurs to action. Given that people have multiple social identities, they can be pulled in different directions making how identities re prioritized important. This talks reviews how this process has influence people's political preferences in three kinds of identity choice: national versus regional, national versus supranational, and, in the American context, national versus ethnic.

Saturday 7 July, 5:00 -6:00 PM, El Mirador BC

Political Psychology and LGBT Politics and Policy

Don Haider-Markel (University of Kansas, USA)

Political Psychology has offered important theoretical and empirical insights to the study of LGBT politics and policy. I review the highlights of this literature, including contact theory, parasocial contact, and the role of values in explaining attitudes about LGBT people, LGBT rights, and LGBT political representation. I discuss recent innovations in examining affect towards transgender and support for transgender rights, including the role of authoritarianism and disgust sensitivity. I make a case for greater exploration of the importance of gender identity and gender non-conformity in social science research and outline additional directions for future research.

SIGEL AWARD

Announcement 2018

Roberta Sigel Early Career Scholar Paper Award 2019

The Sigel Award is given to early career scholar authors of the best papers presented at annual scientific meetings in a symposium, paper panel, or poster session.

ISPP first announced this award at its Vancouver meeting in 1996. Professor Sigel, whom the award honors, was a distinguished professor of political science at Rutgers University. She was the author and editor of seven books and many articles and book chapters, mostly in the areas of political socialization and democratic citizenship. She had many leadership roles in the American Political Science Association and has served as program chair, Vice-President and President of ISPP.

All ISPP early career scholars who are current dues paid members of ISPP and had their paper accepted for the 2018 Annual Meeting are eligible to be considered for the award to be presented during the 2019 meeting. Early career scholars are students (graduate or undergraduate) and faculty who received their Ph.D. within the last eight years. Each award carries a cash prize of $250.

There are two awards with slightly different criteria to accommodate the authorship and publication practices in the various disciplines represented in ISPP:

- The first award is given to the best paper written by early career scholars only. In the case of multiple authors, all co-authors must be early career scholars.
- The second award is conferred to the best paper with an early career scholar first author. This award allows for a senior scholar co-author.

Please nominate (self-nominations are encouraged) eligible papers only (note all submissions as papers; poster format submissions are not acceptable) and submit them to the email below by January 15, 2019. Papers previously submitted to the Sigel Award are not eligible. All submissions will be read by the award committee, consisting of members of the Early Career Committee as well as senior scholars. Two papers will be selected strictly according to scientific excellence and their contribution to research in political psychology.

Best Dissertation Award Announcement 2019

The International Society of Political Psychology is pleased to announce a call for nominations for the Best Dissertation Award, given for the first time at the 2008 Annual Meeting in Paris.

All Ph.D. dissertations within the field of political psychology are eligible for consideration, regardless of home discipline. Dissertations should represent an independent piece of research that is the sole work of the author and gains the highest degree at the author's university.

Nominations are due by January 15, 2019, for dissertations completed and successfully defended between Jan. 1, 2018, and Dec. 31, 2018. Nominees must be current ISPP members. Nominations should be submitted electronically and must include a one-page abstract (300 word), a 10-page (3,000 word) summary of the dissertation, and a letter of recommendation from the thesis adviser or committee member, all in English.

For more information, see <http://www.ispp.org/awards/best-dissertation>

Send nominations to the 2019 Award Committee Chair:

Julie Wronski
University of Mississippi
jwronski@olemiss.edu

The award committee will request a copy of the full dissertation for those selected to participate in the second round evaluation. If the dissertation is written in a language other than English, the full dissertation may be submitted in the original language for the second round evaluation, and at least one qualified reader fluent in that language will be included as a committee member for the second round evaluation.

LISBON July 12 – 15, 2019
Call for Proposals & Papers

LISBON, PORTUGAL July 12 – July 15, 2019
The 42nd Annual Meeting

ISPP 2019: Empowering Citizens in Illiberal Times: The Political Psychology of Oppression and Resistance

Where: Intercontinental Hotel, Lisbon, Portugal

When: 12-15 July 2019

President: David P. Redlawsk (University of Delaware)

Conference Program Co-Chairs: Angie Bos (College of Wooster), Shelley McKeown Jones (University of Bristol)

As we come close to concluding the second decade of the 21st century, challenges to liberal democratic order have become a defining political feature. While non-democratic states have never disappeared, there seemed an inexorable march toward liberal democracy (at least in the “west”) following the end of the US/Soviet Cold War. Recent events, however, have challenged that: authoritarian populist leaders have been democratically elected in a number of countries, leading to potential reversals of liberal democratic ideology. The irony, perhaps, is that democracy itself has sown the seeds that have flowered into illiberal times.

Leaders around the world are demonizing intellectual elites in service of authoritarian populism. Academics in Turkey who have asserted academic freedom have been arrested, tried, and convicted of subverting the state and supporting terrorism. In Hungary, a concerted attack on a western-oriented University continues. Similar stories are playing out around the world, including in the United States, where academics are often under siege from both the extreme right, and the extreme left.

This environment leads to challenging questions for political psychologists, not just about the academic freedom we cherish, but about underlying issues relating to nationalism and identity, the appeal of authoritarianism in unsettled times, and the very nature of what populism is and how it has been used. Exclusionary attitudes toward the “other” seem to represent a clear repudiation of liberal democracy and pluralism; understanding the wellsprings and consequences of these attitudes seems paramount.

At the same time, while the populist backlash seems to be on the rise, many groups and individuals are challenging oppression, and speaking out. In the United States and beyond, #BlackLivesMatter and #MeToo have been prominent examples, among many others, demonstrating the power of collective voice and of social media. In January 2017, an estimated 7 million people participated in the Women's March, with more than 650 marches worldwide. And there have been coordinated efforts at both elite and mass levels to stymie the election of more populist leaders in efforts to resist the wave.

The effects of social media and worldwide communications, then, may work both ways: allowing authoritarians to find their audience, but supporting collective action in resistance. Political psychologists can and must speak to these critical issues at this important moment in history, as well as join forces in pursuit of political and academic freedom. We are particularly interested in papers on collective resistance, individual factors that predict protest, social identity, and group consciousness as mobilizing forces, within these contexts. We seek to recognize and understand both the academic and social realities of our times.

We invite you to participate in the 2019 ISPP Annual Scientific Meeting in Lisbon, Portugal. The ISPP Annual Meeting brings together scholars across disciplines and epistemologies using a wide range of theoretical and methodological approaches. The conference goal is to engage with new research from psychology, political science, sociology, economics, anthropology, biology, geography, communication, history, philosophy, and other disciplines. Proposals for traditional panel papers are welcome, as are proposals for symposia, roundtables, blitz presentations and posters on any topic in political psychology, in addition to the theme described above.

We wish to bring about an inclusive and enriching intellectual exchange between political psychologists from different backgrounds in order to reach a better understanding of the dynamics of society and politics in the world today, to outline possible societal change, and to discuss how political psychologists can contribute to such change.

Join the ISPP Mentoring Program!

The ISPP Mentoring Program pairs junior faculty members with more senior colleagues who can provide advice and support during the early years of the mentee's career.

SENIOR SCHOLARS—BECOME A MENTOR

You may ask to mentor a junior scholar for a brief period to provide mentorship on a specific issue or for a longer time –during the course of a semester or throughout the academic year.

If you're interested in participating, please fill out the brief questionnaire

<http://www.surveygizmo.com/s3/3596053/mentor-survey> or send an email to ISPPMentoringProg@ispp.org.

JUNIOR FACULTY MEMBERS —FIND A MENTOR

Ideally, mentees would be paired in at the beginning of their first year as faculty members, but the program will also match assistant professors who have been at their institutions for longer periods.

If you're interested in participating, please fill out the brief questionnaire

<http://www.surveygizmo.com/s3/3596053/mentor-survey> or send an email to ISPPMentoringProg@ispp.org.

Additional Conference Information

Registration

Participants can pick up their conference materials beginning at 3:00 PM on 4 July at the Registration tables in the El Mirador Foyer area. Registration will again be open beginning at 7:30am on 5 July, and at 8:00am on 6-7 July (until 5:00pm all days), and will close at 12:00pm on 7 July.

Wi-Fi Access

All meeting rooms have Wi-Fi access. Please use the following Wi-Fi network, along with the additional logon information provided within the meeting rooms and areas: Meeting Room HSIA

Use of any other available Wi-Fi networks is at your own risk.

Poster Sessions

The poster boards and tacks will be available starting at 8:30am on 5 July for presenters to post their materials for the 6 July poster session. Please remove your posters by 1:00pm on 6 July so that those in the poster session on 7 July can start posting their materials. The poster room will be closed at 5:00pm on 5 and 6 July. Please check the number of your poster in the sessions listing for each day; the boards will be numbered the same and you should place your materials on the board corresponding to your number in the program. Please note that materials need to be removed BY 1:00pm following the end of each poster session or they will be thrown away. ISPP is not responsible for safeguarding materials left behind after the end of the poster sessions.

Tourist Information

ISPP will have several brochures for San Antonio and the surrounding areas available in your conference bags. These brochures are free for you to take and provide some information on places of interest and tours of San Antonio and the nearby Hill Country. Any tours are separate from the conference and must be purchased separately.

Questions?

ISPP staff and volunteers can be found at the Registration tables and throughout the meeting room areas. They can be identified by red "STAFF" ribbons on their name badges. Please come see us with any inquiries.
